In a time when the LGBTQ community is seeing its rights hang in the balance of the Trump administration, a beacon of hope and strength will now fly proud and permanently across from the historic Stonewall Inn. For the first time, the rainbow flag will hang next to the Stars and Stripes in Christopher Park, which was designated a national monument last year by President Obama. I spoke to organizer Ken Kidd about this significant event, which has an inches-sized caveat. metro.us

TRUMP ATTACKS ESPN'S JEMELE HILL ON TWITTER

I President Trump took to twitter to attack ESPN host Jemele Hill just one day after she was suspended for expressing her thoughts about Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones. ESPN suspended Jemele Hill for two weeks on Monday because of, according to ESPN, "a second violation" of their social media guidelines. In a series of tweets that began Sunday night, Hill criticized the Cowboys team owner for his comments about any players who "disrespect the flag." Early Tuesday morning, Donald Trump tweeted, "With Jemele Hill at the mike, it is no wonder ESPN ratings have 'tankd,' in fact, tanked so badly it is the talk of the industry!" Just before that, he blasted the NFL for getting "massive tax breaks" at the same time they are "disrespecting our Anthem."

WILDFIRES KILL 15 IN CALIFORNIA

2 Fast-moving wildfires burning across Northern California's wine country had claimed at least 15 lives by Tuesday afternoon and destroyed an estimated 1,500 homes and commercial buildings, according to the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection. Flames have spread across more than 115,000 acres since the fires broke out on Sunday but firefighters took advantage of cooler temperatures, decreased winds and coastal fog on Tuesday to try to make headway against the fires. North of San Francisco, the blazes reduced houses to ashes in several communities. The city of Santa Rosa was particularly hard hit by the so-called Tubbs Fire, which damaged a Hilton hotel and destroyed a mobile home park. The flames were fanned by high temperatures and dry conditions.

LABOR PROTEST

3 A woman reacts as antiriot police chase masked youth on the sidelines of a demonstration on Tuesday in Paris, part of a nationwide strikes and demonstrations day called by nine unions representing 5.4 million public sector workers to show their "profound disagreement" with the French president's bid to transform the gargantuan public service and government's plans to freeze their pay and eliminate 120,000 public jobs.

LAWSUIT FILED AGAINST BUMP STOCK MAKERS

4 A lawsuit seeking to represent the victims of the Las Vegas rampage, the deadliest mass shooting in modern U.S. history, was filed against the makers of so-called bump stocks, which the shooter used to achieve a near-automatic rate of fire. The proposed class action lawsuit, filed in state court in Clark County, Nevada, over the weekend and announced on Tuesday, accuses Slide Fire Solutions and other unnamed manufacturers of negligence leading to the infliction of emotional distress on thousands of people who witnessed or were injured in the Oct. 1 shooting at a Las Vegas music festival. The lawsuit by three Nevada residents who attended the festival does not involve the injuries that hundreds of people suffered as a result of the shooting, or the families of the 58 people who were killed.

NFL OWNERS TO MULL ANTHEM RULES

5 NFL team owners will consider requiring football players to stand for the national anthem after President Donald Trump suggested using tax laws to penalize the league for players who kneel in protest of racial injustice. Trump escalated his feud with the NFL in a Twitter post asking if the league should get tax breaks while some athletes kneel in protest when the "Star-Spangled Banner" is played at the start of each game. "Why is the NFL getting massive tax breaks while at the same time disrespecting our Anthem, Flag and Country? Change tax law!" Trump wrote on Twitter on Tuesday. The world's top-grossing sports league gave up its tax-free status two years ago. Its owners are preparing to address the anthem issue at their fall meeting in New York Oct. 17-18, NFL chief spokesman Joe Lockhart told reporters.

Rainbow flag flies high, proud and permanently near Stonewall Inn

Oct. 11, 2017, is the first time a rainbow flag will be permanently raised near New York City's Stonewall Inn and on federal land — sort of.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
 @NikkiMMascali
 nikki.mascali@metro.us

Oct. 11 is an important day in LGBTQ history. Not only is it the 29th anniversary of National Coming Out Day, it's also the 30th anniversary of the second March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights, which had an estimated attendance of more than half a million people.

Oct. 11, 2017 is now among those notable ranks because it is the day the first rainbow flag will be permanently raised in New York City and on federal land — sort of. (We'll get to that.)

Across from the historic Stonewall Inn, where riots sparked the gay rights movement in 1969, is a national monument designated by President Barack Obama in June 2016. It is the first to be dedicated to LGBTQ rights and history, and a flagpole at the eastern side of the park will fly an official rainbow flag for the first time.

"I think it's important to remember that from June 28, 1969, to June 24, 2016, it wasn't really regarded as the rightful place in history that it should have — and it does have," said Ken Kidd, a longtime activist who is an organizer of today's flag dedication at noon.

"... See our rainbow colors flying in tandem with the Stars and Stripes. ... That is a step toward equality the likes we have never seen in New York City or on federal property before — give or take an inch."

Ken Kidd

"This is a big deal."

But there's an inchesized caveat. After Newsweek ran a story on the flag dedication, federal officials said the flagpole is not technically part of federal land as it is a few inches outside the monument — and late Tuesday, the National Park Service pulled out of sponsoring the dedication and any responsibility associated with the flag's upkeep.

"This abrupt turnaround, as well as the NPS distancing itself from this event, is more evidence of the Trump administration's campaign to reduce LGBT people to second-class American citizens," Kidd said in a statement.

"It's no coincidence that this comes on the heels of Attorney General Sessions's support of religious rights over LGBT civil rights."

The last time an LGBTQ symbol adorned a national monument was during the March on Washington 30 years ago today when the AIDS Memorial Quilt was spread across the National Mall.

"When people talk about the 'gay agenda,' there's one agenda and it's an anti-gay agenda being perpetrated by Donald Trump," Kidd said. "Our struggle for equality is not over by any stretch of the imagination, but we are in it together, and we are not backing down."

Despite the administration's efforts to roll back LGBTQ rights such as disallowing transgenders in the military or not designating June Pride Month as previous presidents did, Wednesday's flag dedication remains a milestone — and a sign for future generations.

"Look up in the sky on Wednesday afternoon and see our rainbow colors flying in tandem with the Stars and Stripes," Kidd said. "That is a step toward equality the likes we have never seen in New York City or on federal property before — give or take an inch."

You could say he got an L of a lot more than he bargained for – and some soup to the face.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
@NikkiMMascali
nikki.mascali@metro.us

A man who put belligerent racism on full display on a New York City subway train found an L of a lot more than he bargained for on Saturday afternoon.

A man identified as Paul Lawson began spouting racial slurs on a Brooklyn-bound L train as he held a can of Bud Light Lime-A-Rita, according to bystander video obtained by Gothamist.

Joshua Pyne, who witnessed the whole thing, told Gothamist that the incident began after there was a “spat about personal space” between Lawson and a group of black men who got off at the First Avenue stop. Pyne said Lawson didn’t appear to be “falling-down drunk,” but he was “clearly belligerent.”

“I talk s— because I know I can ‘cause I’m a lawyer, I went to NYU Law!” Lawson shouts. “F— you!”

A straphanger is seen trying to keep Lawson at bay by blocking him against the door while riders shouted back. Lawson then danced around the train singing, “First Amendment!” before dropping more racial slurs and shouting “f— you” a few more times.

A woman who is not seen in the footage urges Lawson to “say it again” before shouting, “This man is a racist!”

Lawson took a sip of his Lime-A-Rita as he’s blocked against the door again and another straphanger tries to reason with him. When he tries to get his bag, someone yells, “F— your bag, dude,” which makes Lawson more belligerent as he says, “You can’t take my property!”

When the train pulls into the Bedford Avenue stop, Lawson is pushed off the train by his fellow straphangers and stumbles backward until he falls onto the platform. When he tries to get back on the train to get his bag, someone shoves his face while another person throws a tub of orange-colored soup at his head.

Lawson falls again and riders in the doorway start kicking at him to keep him from boarding the train again. He takes off down the platform, yelling one more slur, to which someone said, “Get your hate speech out of here!”

“There was a good sense that social justice had been served,” Pyne said.

In a series of conflicting Facebook posts that have since been deleted, Lawson called the video of the L train incident “unfortunate” and that he’s “getting help.” He also said he “had my head broke open the next day,” Gothamist later reported.

Lawson then went on to say that he was “not that sorry,” that he was “making a point” by using the racial slurs and that he was a “race-baiter ... not a racist.”

But the plot thickens: Several sources told Gothamist that Saturday’s incident was not Lawson’s first foray into inciting incidents. A May Twitter video shows him taunting a black man with slurs. The man eventually pushed Lawson off the train and punched him in the face amid applause from other riders.

“He thrives on confrontation,” a source said.

Lawson did not respond to a request for comment from Metro, but if you were wondering why he was drinking the Lime-A-Rita, “it was free bro,” he said in a Facebook post.

Women claim Harvey Weinstein sexually assaulted them: New report

Weinstein was one of the most powerful men in Hollywood, producing Oscar-winning movies.

The New Yorker reported on Tuesday that 13 women have claimed that movie producer Harvey Weinstein sexually harassed or assaulted them, including three who told the magazine they had been raped.

Weinstein's spokeswoman Sallie Hofmeister was quoted in the article saying, "Any allegations of nonconsensual sex are unequivocally denied by Mr. Weinstein."

Weinstein and the women for whom contact information was available did not reply to Reuters requests for comment. Reuters was unable to independently confirm any of the claims.

"Mr. Weinstein obviously can't speak to anonymous allegations, but with respect to any women who have made allegations on the record, Mr. Weinstein believes that all of these relationships were consensual," Hofmeister was quoted as saying.

The New York City Police Department and Manhattan District Attorney's Office said in separate statements on Tuesday that Weinstein was investigated in 2015 over an allegation that he sexually abused one of the women, who was named in the article. The District Attorney's Office said there was insufficient evidence to charge him.

Separately, The New York Times reported on Tuesday that actress Gwyneth Paltrow said she was sexually harassed by Weinstein more than 20 years ago and that Angelina Jolie said she "had a bad experience with Harvey Weinstein in my youth and as a result chose never to work with him again."

Jolie and Paltrow did not reply to requests for comment.

The New Yorker reported that Italian actress Ambra Battilana Gutierrez went to police in 2015 claiming that Weinstein had sexually assaulted her.

She was asked by police to arrange another meeting with Weinstein during which she would wear a recording device, the New Yorker reported.

Manhattan Chief Assistant District Attorney

Karen Friedman Agnifilo said on Tuesday, referring to the wire, "While the recording is horrifying to listen to, what emerged from the audio was insufficient to prove a crime under New York law."

Gutierrez could not be reached for comment.

The New York Times published an article last week in which it was alleged that Weinstein had sexually harassed several women over 30 years. After a statement in which Weinstein apologized for his behavior, his attorney Charles J. Harder said the newspaper's story was defamatory because it relied on "mostly hearsay accounts and a faulty report."

Weinstein, one of the most powerful men in Hollywood who produced and distributed movies like "Shakespeare in Love" and "Chicago," was fired over the weekend from his job as co-chairman of The Weinstein Company.

The Democratic National Committee and several Democratic politicians who received political contributions from Weinstein said they would reroute the money to women's rights groups.

On Tuesday, former Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton said she was "shocked and appalled" at the reports about Weinstein. She did not mention any contribution but said "the behavior described ... cannot be tolerated."

What is Trump's IQ?

He sure does bring it up a lot.

LINNEA ZIELINSKI
@MetroNewYork
letters@metro.us

After Trump's tweet Tuesday morning, the world is wondering, what is Donald Trump's IQ?

President Trump challenged Secretary of State Rex Tillerson to a battle of the brains after news broke that Tillerson called the president a "moron" (or a "f---ing moron" depending on reports) in a closed-door meeting with Trump's national security team. Trump responded to the reports by saying "I think it's fake news, but if he did that, I guess we'll have to compare IQ tests. And I can tell you who is going to win."

Trump brags, usually on Twitter, about his high IQ about as frequently as he challenges others to prove their own. The claims, though common, are not substantiated. In one such tweet from 2013, Trump simply claims his high IQ is common knowledge, writing, "Sorry losers and haters, but my I.Q. is one of the highest — and you all know it!"

You may have seen a chart on social media in December 2016 that claimed to rank the IQs of former presidents. The score associated with Donald Trump: 156, which would land him in the 99th percentile. Can that be trusted?

The chart, yes: Trump's score, no, said Snopes. The chart itself dates back to a study conducted in 2006, though many of the IQ scores of past presidents are estimated by psychologist Dean Keith Simonton. As for the 156 rumor, that dates back to an article that ran in August 2015.

This genius-level IQ score claim comes from an article published by BeforeItsNews.com that claims Donald Trump's IQ can be estimated based on his acceptance to the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania.

But, Snopes points out two ways this explanation falls short: first, that Wharton's current SAT requirements convert to an IQ range of 145 to 149, not 156. Secondly, Trump transferred into Wharton instead of applying to enter as a freshman. That means he might not have met the requirements for acceptance as a freshman, and even if he did, they probably translated to an IQ lower than 150, let alone 156.

Trump says he and Tillerson will 'have to compare IQ tests' after 'moron' comment

President Donald Trump said he will have to compare IQ tests with Rex Tillerson if the secretary of state really called him a "moron."

"I think it's fake news, but if he did that, I guess we'll have to compare IQ tests. And I can tell you who is going to win," Trump said in an interview with Forbes that was published Tuesday morning.

News broke last week that Tillerson called President Trump a "moron" in a meeting with members of Trump's national security team last year.

First reported by NBC, several major news organizations confirmed the insult, some saying that Tillerson called Trump a "f---king moron" and nearly resigned over clashes with the Trump administration.

Trump and Tillerson have publicly portrayed a positive relationship, but there have been signs that there could be trouble in paradise.

"We have a very good relationship," Trump told reporters Saturday, according to The Washington Post. "We disagree on a couple of things. Sometimes I'd like him to be a little bit tougher."

The first signs of their potentially deteriorating relationship came up about a month ago after Trump seemed to undercut Tillerson's attempts at reaching a diplomatic solution with North Korea, which has been ramping up its nuclear missile program.

When Tillerson said he was in communication with Kim Jong Un's regime, Trump took to Twitter saying Tillerson was "wasting his time talking to North Korea."

Trump told Forbes he didn't think the comments undermined Tillerson.

"I think I'm actually strengthening authority," he said.

Trump, Tillerson and Defense Secretary Jim Mattis planned to meet for lunch Tuesday in the president's private dining room, Forbes reported. ERIN TIERNAN

Can This Medical Technology Possibly Eliminate Or

The Advanced Medical Treatment Every Back & Neck Pain Sufferer Needs To Know

NYC Pain MD is a medical clinic with two locations in New York City that has made a name for itself by treating the worst cases of back or neck pain.

Here is what every back and neck pain sufferer who has failed to respond to other treatments and does not want surgery should know about one of the best treatment options available today for severe back and neck pain including when, why and where you should consider this treatment to get maximum results.

If you suffer with back, neck or nerve pain, you have probably already tried many treatments ... especially countless pain medications.

Experienced doctors understand that even though pain medications such as anti-inflammatory pain pills are part of the recommended early treatment plan for back pain... they are rarely the answer.

In most cases they have minimal, short term results (if any) and have a laundry list of potential side effects. Some being serious and even life threatening.

Are there any better options?

Thankfully, advancements in science and technology come extremely fast. And now there is very good option to help relieve the pain.

An option that a lot of back and neck pain sufferers may have never heard of before.

Before we get into these treatments, please understand this...

NYC Pain MD is a REAL medical clinic that has treated the worst cases of back pain. Patients travel from all over to be treated at one of their clinics for all sorts of joint and muscle pain because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover is a REAL medical treatment. Not some miracle cure you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no one treatment that will help every case of back pain. And we cannot guarantee this treatment will work for you. But this treatment has already helped countless back and neck pain sufferers who had given up hope. I bet many just like you.

What is this treatment? It's called...

Radiofrequency Neurotomy "Radiofrequency Neurotomy" is often referred to as RF for short. Just what is "RF".

RF is a procedure that is based on the concept that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your spine and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

Radiofrequency waves are delivered to these nerves under advanced imaging to "block" the nerves and slow down the pain

Two procedures are performed. First, a test, diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, the Radio Frequency Neurotomy is scheduled and performed for longer term relief.

What Results Can You Expect?

Like all real medical procedures... results vary for individual patients. No good and ethical doctor would guarantee any exact results for any procedure... that's just not how things work and it would be less than honest.

That's being said, it is not uncommon for patients to get complete, if not significant relief of their pain shortly after the treatment.

How Long Do The Results Last?

This procedure "impairs" the nerves pain signals... it does not destroy them. Therefore, the results are safe but not completely permanent. But, many patients get relief for 6 months... 12 months.... 18 months for some even longer. The great news is - another procedure can be safely performed for more relief if necessary.

While we cannot claim this is a complete "permanent cure" . . . it can be a godsend for so many who were in constant pain.

Really... what would it be worth if you could get out of pain for long enough so you could start enjoying your everyday life again?

Would it be worth it to be able to finally get a good night's sleep again?

How about being able to go for a simple walk or just do your basic daily chores without worrying about so much pain?

Is It Safe?

Yes. This procedure has been done countless times and continues to have an excellent safety record. It is minimally invasive and is not surgical.

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as anti-inflammatory pain medication and physical therapy do not offer good enough results.

RF has also been found effective AFTER back surgery when patient's still feel pain.

The pain after a failed back surgery can be debilitating for some and this procedure may be the only thing that helps give you relief.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain And The "X" Factor

Here is the "X" factor many do not consider that might be the difference between you getting the best possible treatment or not.

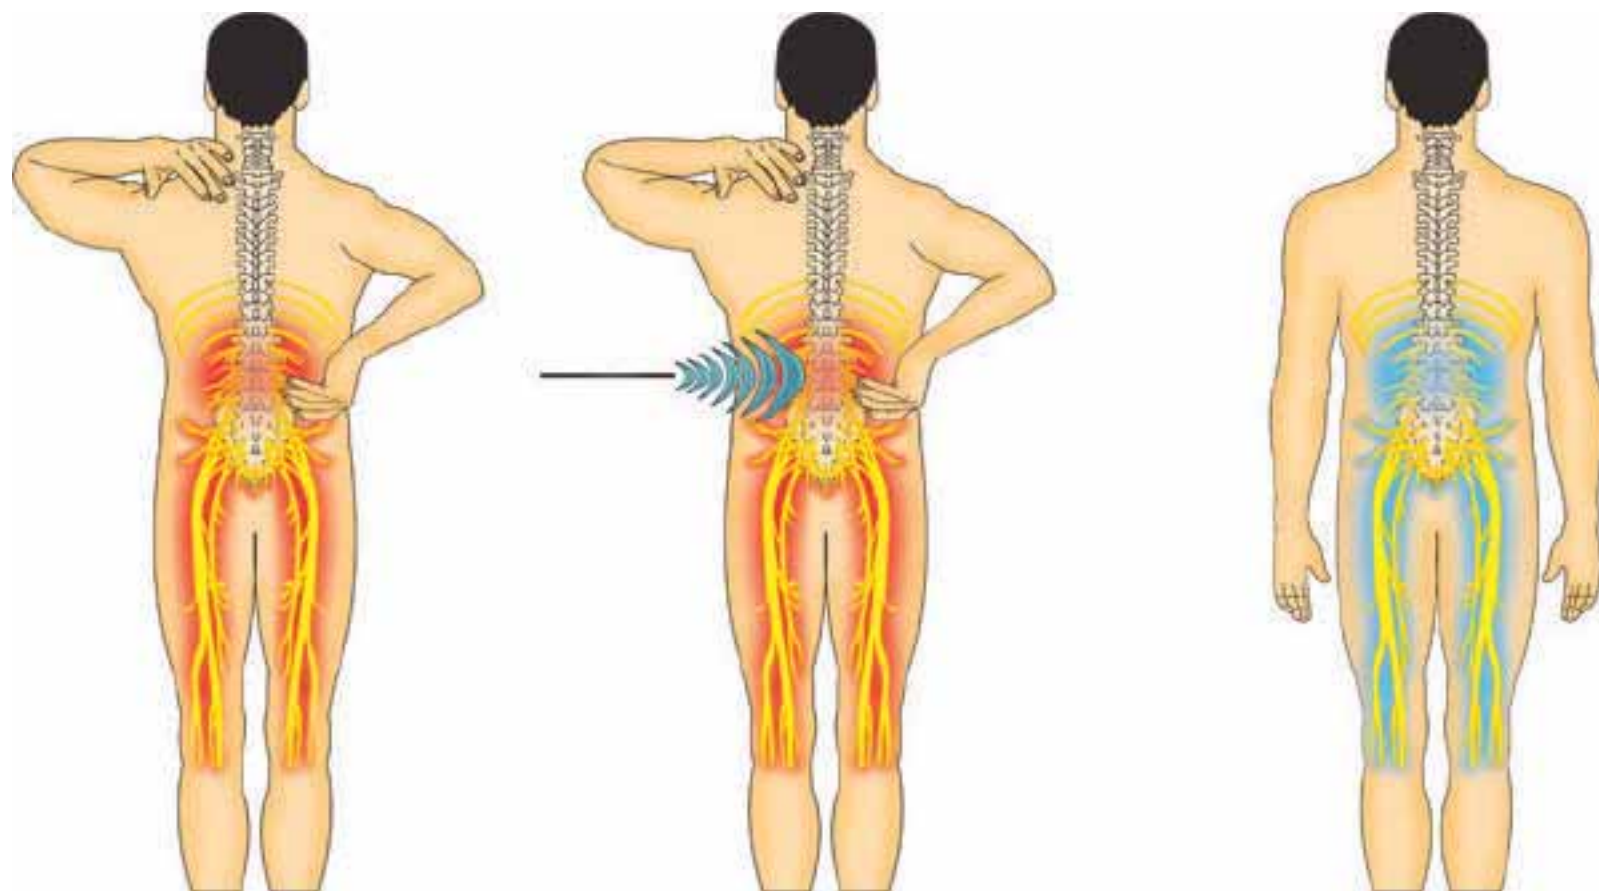

Many experts suggest choosing a medical clinic that offers all these treatments and has the proper, most advanced technology all under one roof without the need for a surgical center or hospital.

Advanced Treatment Uses Radio Frequencies To Relieve Serious Neck & Back Pain

Science rescues back & neck pain sufferers?: Radio Frequency Waves are used to block the nerve supply to the painful area and may alleviate pain and restore function to many

NYC Pain MD's method allows you to avoid expensive hospital or out patient surgery-center facility fees which often run 3 to 4 times the cost of the procedure itself. And you don't have to go through the huge stress and time consuming process of going all over the city to outside centers. All the NYC Pain MD treatments can be done in our in-office procedure suites saving you stress, time and dollars. NYC Pain MD believes this additional "X" factor is one of the reasons so many back pain sufferers travel from all over to be treated at their advanced medical center.

Are Dakota and Jon a thing now?

If you could couple any two white, heterosexual Hollywood stars together, would you pick "Mad Men" star Jon Hamm and Dakota Johnson — you know, that poor thing that was roped into "50 Shades of Grey?" Me neither.

And yet Page Six reports that Hamm and Johnson — were spotted "drinking wine" last Thursday. And as we all know, you cannot enjoy the sweet tannins of a savory Pinot Noir in the company of another person unless you're all caps TOGETHER. "They seemed to really be enjoying each other's company," a spy told the site of their

What could possibly go wrong?

"low-key" night. Also, they hung out for two whole hours.

Moreover, Hamm, 46, and Johnson, 28, were also spotted together at Elton John's 70th birthday party in April, so you know. They're practically married at this point.

But really, they're both rich, they're both actors, they're both conventionally attractive. What could possibly go wrong?

Frankie Muniz also forgot 'Malcolm in the Middle'

Frankie Muniz appears to not remember "Malcolm in the Middle," the hilarious comedy that brought him fame, introduced the world to Bryan Cranston and arguably gave Muniz the opportunity to be on "Dancing with the Stars," but we digress.

"It's something that I never really wanted to talk about, because I'm just me and this is my life," he said after his performance Monday night. "But we were talking about Poor thing.

'Malcolm' and how it started, and I don't really have memories of being on the show.

"I'm not a doctor person," he added. "Every time I go to the doctors they just tell me I'm crazy."

Uhhhh. We're not doctors either, but it sure seems to be that Muniz's lack of long term memory might have something to do with the nine concussions he's had and the "fair amount of mini-strokes" too. He, of course, doesn't think so. "I'm not saying those things correlate exactly to the reason why my memory's not great." Slightly scary stuff.

Welcome to the dark side, Betty Cooper

Lili Reinhart is picture perfect as perennial good girl Betty in "Riverdale," but this season will see her show off a grittier side.

LUCÍA HERNÁNDEZ
letters@metro.us

Last season "Riverdale" was a hit. And this season promises to be bigger, better — and darker. "[Early on] in the first season we introduced the darker side of Betty," says Lili Reinhart, the 21-year-old behind Riverdale's dream girl. But don't worry, this season promises even more Dark Betty. "Her world is changing," Reinhart continues. "We'll see that darkness come from a more real place."

Ahead of the premiere of the second season on October 11 at 8 p.m. we chatted with the Cleveland born actress about representation, feminism and of course, Betty's romance with Jughead.

What does the new season hold for Betty?
Dark Betty will come up this season as something much more mental, more internal.

Cole Sprouse as Jughead Jones and Lili Reinhart as Betty Cooper. BETTINA STRAUSS / THE CW

She's going to face major problems and find herself right in the middle of a mystery. And she'll go through some mental games and a really traumatic event that'll lead her into a depression. It's going to cause a lot of psychological damage.

Comic book readers are more accustomed to Betty as the good girl. What's their feedback been like?

Usually when we get feedback from people, they've seen the show because their children are watching it. And they're surprised! They say, 'You're not the Betty I grew up with' But I like that Betty is facing real problems. That makes her character much deeper. She's still a happy, bright and innocent girl, but now she's balanced with real emotions.

It definitely reflects a broader representation of women in television. Do you think "Riverdale" fulfills that?

Yes. It's refreshing to see this new generation of TV, where women are friends with each other. Betty and Veronica aren't fighting over a man. It's a very important part of our show that these girls are friends and they're not competing with each other for attention or love. They can conquer the world without fighting for a man.

We will definitely mention feminist themes [in the second season]. It will touch on a lot of important things young people face: mental health, romance, friendship, love triangles.

These teens are definitely facing darker problems, too.

Definitely. For a long time, television has showed teenage characters in only one dimension: innocents, who are always happy. Villains, who are always bad. They've never showed you the different aspects or colors of their personalities.

Last but definitely not least, what can we expect from Betty's relationship with Jughead?

There's going to be a civil war in Riverdale and you'll have to choose sides: Betty will be on one and Jughead on another. And all these external forces are going to try to separate them, which is sad. Although they try to maintain that connection, inevitably the circumstances will distance them. But they'll continue to fight against the forces working to separate them.

Good Fences take over the city

Inside NYC's largest public art project.

EVA KIS
@thisiskis
eva.kis@metro.us

New Yorkers are going to live a little less free for a few months, a reminder of the life of refugees both here and abroad.

The largest public art project in New York City history, Good Fences Make Good Neighbors brings over 300 artworks spanning all five boroughs to spark more, and increasingly necessary, conversations about immigration.

Created by Ai Weiwei, a Chinese dissident artist and 10-year resident of New York City, the exhibit is a reminder to those feeling safe in our land of the free that most of the world doesn't enjoy the same luxury.

Ai's artfully designed fences don't hold anyone in, or keep anyone out. What they do is make a few of New York City's best-known landmarks — Central Park, the Washington Square arch, the Unisphere in Flushing Meadows-Corona Park — a little less accessible.

At the Doris C. Freedman Plaza, which serves as the southeast entrance to Central Park, you can step inside the giant Gilded Cage, if that's not too on the nose for you given the state of our democracy.

Good Fences Make Good Neighbors will be on display through Feb. 11, 2018. GETTY IMAGES

Ai Weiwei

Beneath Washington Square Park's signature arch, there sits a 50-foot-tall fence broken by a mirrored passageway shaped like two human silhouettes. The piece has created some controversy from neighborhood groups — objections that Ai has welcomed. That fences should make us unhappy is the entire point, after all.

Perhaps most impactful is Flushing Meadows-Corona Park's Unisphere, which is now surrounded in mesh netting. The globe's name is a reminder that the notion of a truly United States remains a utopian dream. Meanwhile, the netting's double use as seating and hammocks can be seen as commentary on our ready acceptance of the restrictions placed on us by authorities.

Ai also tips his hat to immigrants by highlighting the role they played in creating New York City's infrastructure and the freedom of movement we all enjoy because of them. He's added "fences" that double as seating at 10 bus shelters in Downtown Brooklyn and Harlem, and hung portraits of immigrants from 200 lamp posts. More than 100 bus shelters, newsstands and Link NYC kiosks now double as an urban art exhibit of famous immigrants and modern refugees.

Ai has referred to Good Fences Make Good Neighbors as "a love letter to the city and its people." It's a reminder of what we have and how everyone's life becomes poorer when we build walls instead of welcoming new neighbors.

It's do-or-die time for Yankees

New York and the Indians face off in a winner-take-all Game 5 of the ALDS on Wednesday night at 8:08 p.m.

JOE PANTORNO
@JoePantorno
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Nothing captures the imagination of a sports fan like the Game 7 of a playoff series. Well, for the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians' cases this time around, it's a winner-take-all Game 5 in the American League Division Series, which takes place on Wednesday night.

After going down 2-0 in the series, including a blown 8-3 lead in Game 2, the Yankees have rallied to take both games at home to force this exciting, high-stakes elimination game.

The Indians are set to trot out their ace Corey Kluber, who the Yankees tagged for six runs on seven hits in 2.2 innings in Game 2.

New York will respond with the elder statesman of their pitching staff, CC Sabathia, who went 5.1 innings and allowed two earned runs in that same game.

If facing the frontrunner for the American League Cy Young wasn't enough, the Yankees have to try and beat an Indians team in their house. Cleveland has lost just three home games dating back to Aug. 24.

If history means anything in these kinds of games, the Yankees have the advantage, holding a 12-11 record in 23 winner-take-all games. The Indians by contrast are just 1-5.

Let's take a look at how the Game 5 starters have fared in similar conditions and who fortune might favor this evening.

Filip Chytil is on his way to Hartford after two NHL games. GETTY IMAGES

Rangers assign Filip Chytil to AHL

The young forward appeared in two games for the Blueshirts.

The New York Rangers announced on Tuesday morning that they have assigned 18-year-old center Filip Chytil to the Hartford Wolf Pack in the American Hockey League (AHL).

Chytil appeared in two of the Rangers' first three games this season. He did not record a point and had a minus-2 rating.

New York selected Chytil 21st overall in the 2017 draft out of Zlin in the Czech Republic, just 14 picks after they nabbed Swedish phenom Lias Andersson with the No. 7 pick.

While Andersson went back to Sweden to continue working on his game, Chytil made the big club out of camp, though it's understandable why he didn't last too long.

The Rangers had a limited time to see what he had in the NHL. If Chytil had played in 10 games this season, it would have counted as his entire rookie season.

He might not be done moving, though. Rangers head coach Alain Vigneault told the media on Tuesday prior to the Rangers' game against the St. Louis Blues that Chytil will be examined after his first few games with Hartford. If the team still views him as an NHL option, he will likely stay in the minors for the time being.

If not, there is a chance that he will head back to the Czech Republic to continue developing his game.

Chytil's departure opens up a spot for Jesper Fast, who has started the season recovering from a hip injury. Meanwhile, the team claimed Adam Cracknell off waivers on Monday, who could fill in if Fast is unable to go yet.

Aries You'll have trouble containing your emotions. Think before you act on an assumption that could cost you an important friendship. Keep your thoughts to yourself.

Taurus Do something different. Lend a helping hand or take a unique approach to the way you utilize your talents and skills. Touch base with an old friend or colleague.

Gemini By searching for alternative ways to use your skills, you will discover a moneymaking opportunity. Put pressure on anyone you feel can contribute to your plan.

Cancer You'll face opposition and pressure when it comes to important partnerships or dealings with children or unpredictable individuals trying to take advantage of you.

Leo An unexpected situation will strike an emotional chord that will make you want to do something to make a difference. You'll be met with opposition if you aren't prepared.

Virgo Be open to what outsiders suggest. A physical approach to life and what's expected of you will show that you have it in you to finish what you start.

Libra A unique approach to the way you use your skills or do your job will open a window of opportunity. Use reason, but don't shy away from doing things differently.

Scorpio Open up about the way you feel and what you want to do. Sharing with someone close to you will encourage you to follow through with your plans.

Sagittarius Be creative when dealing with lending, borrowing or donating. Look at every angle and consider where your cash will have the greatest effect. Be careful.

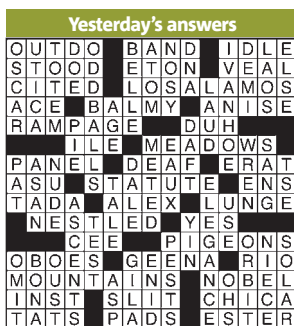

Capricorn Emotions will surface if you don't get to pursue what you want. Be creative in the way you approach income opportunities. Taking baby steps will have positive results.

Aquarius Do something creative or unusual that will get you involved in an act of compassion. Keep your actions simple, but directed where your effort is needed most.

Pisces Get involved in a creative process that will help you develop hidden skills and artistic desires. Children will play an interesting role in a decision you make. EUGENIA LAST
